

At CACI, America's Missions Are Our Missions

We bring the right people, the right expertise, and the right technology to solve our customers' toughest challenges.

For more than 55 years, CACI has delivered innovation, expertise, and excellence in service to the vital national missions our customers perform. Our long record of service and long-standing relationships with customers across the federal marketplace contribute to our success as a leading, trusted provider of innovative solutions and services for our customers' most demanding challenges.

We help customers modernize and transform how the government does business; optimize the delivery of healthcare and other services to citizens; secure and protect vital data and IT infrastructures; help safeguard the nation by tracking and countering emerging threats; and keep America's armed forces equipped, armed, and mission-ready.
